BULBS PERENNIALS

Due largely to extremely favorable growing conditions in Holland, it is possible to secure bulbs, particularly Tulips, at prices so reasonable as to warrant planting them freely this year.

Our grower, who has consistently furnished us with quality bulbs, is in a position just now to quote prices that are lower than they have been for several years, and in view of these lower prices prevailing and the fact that bulbs were not planted in quantity last season, there will doubtless be a heavy late summer demand. Notwithstanding the low prices, all bulbs are of the finest quality and, unless specifically mentioned, will be the same No. 1 grade we have always supplied.

A discount of 5 per cent will be allowed where cash accompanies the order. Orders will be promptly acknowledged and, if paid, receipted.

GUARANTEE. Loss of bulbs may be due to field-mice, moles, too much commercial fertilizer, or wrong soil conditions. We cannot be held responsible for losses from these causes, but if, under right conditions, bulbs secured from us fail to give good results or prove untrue to name, we will replace them in full, free of charge and without question.

All varieties, except where noted, should be planted September 15 or after

Stately Late-Flowering Tulips

INCLUDING DARWIN, BREEDER, AND COTTAGE TYPES

The Giant-flowering types are all included here for your convenience, rather than given botanical classification. They flower in late May, are of tall-growing habit, and may be used conjointly regardless of type. Their blooms excel in brilliance of color, perfection of form, and lasting qualities. Tulips are splendid for massing separately and very effective when grouped in colonies of six or more among the spring- or fall-flowering perennials. Cut the old flower-spike away in early June and let the remaining foliage mature. Do not disturb the bulbs; they should flower well for three years in good soil.

Daffodils and Narcissi

Since the importation of all Narcissi from abroad has been prohibited, their culture has been taken up on a large scale here in the East, South, and extreme West. We are fully convinced that the great majority of Narcissi are best produced in the cold climate of Washington, in the Puget Sound district, and as far as possible secure our bulbs from there. We believe that you will agree with us that the quality is in every way equal to the previously imported bulbs.

Bulb-Culture

To get results in bulb-culture, the soil should be enriched, particularly where annuals have been grown the previous summer or among the perennials where the soil is apt to be impoverished. Well-rotted manure is the best fertilizer, but it must be thoroughly decomposed and as friable or easily handled as soil. It should be mixed with the soil to a depth of from 9 to 12 inches. As a substitute, pure bone-meal, finely ground, can be used and leaf-mold should be added if the ground is of a heavy texture. A hard-baked soil will not grow good bulbs. Light mulch of leaves or straw should be provided before heavy frosts.

Hints for Winter Forcing

Tulips, Daffodils, and Hyacinths require a rich, porous soil and sufficient time to root well before being brought into heat. Three points are absolutely essential to success:

1. A strong root-development is necessary before forcing. Bulbs should be potted as early as they can be secured.
2. Moisture—the roots must at no time be allowed to dry.
3. Pots should be buried where a cool, moist condition can be maintained, as near 36° to 38° as possible.

A coldframe or any sheltered spot will serve to keep the pots until ready for forcing. After potting or boxing, the bulbs should be thoroughly watered and allowed to stand a few hours to dispose of excess moisture, then buried to a depth of 3 to 4 inches in soil or moist peat. In late November a heavy covering of leaves or straw should be applied so that the pots will not be frozen in during winter.

If a cold root-cellar is available, all pots could be stored there, lightly covered with soil or peat, from late November on. They should be readily accessible during winter, and a few pots should be brought inside each week, to provide a succession of bloom. A cool temperature and as much sunshine as possible should be provided. The pots must be kept constantly moist.

The following schedule may assist the grower. Dates given are earliest date for bringing the different kinds into heat, always provided the pots are full of roots.

December 10 or later. Prepared Hyacinths, any variety; Darwin Tulip, William Copland; Single Early Tulip, Brilliant Star; Narcissus, Golden Spur and Von Sion.

December 20. The above kinds and Darwin Tulip, William Pitt; Narcissus, King Alfred; Hyacinths, first-size bulbs.

January 1. The above kinds and Miniature Hyacinths; Single Early Tulips, Cramoisi Brillant, King of the Yellows, La Reine, Rose La Reine, Prince of Austria, Yellow Prince; Narcissus, Emperor, Spring Glory, and Poetaz varieties.

January 15. The above kinds and Darwin Tulips, Bartigon, Le Notre, Pride of Haarlem, Princess Elizabeth; Single Early Tulips, Rose Luisante, Couleur Cardinal, Fred Moore, Prosperity, Keizerkroon, Vermillon Brillant; Double Tulips, Couronne d'Or, Murillo, Mr. Van der Hoef, Tea Rose; Narcissi, any kind marked *; Hyacinths, any kind marked *.

From February 1 on. Any variety marked * should force readily.

NOTE: Freesias, Paper-White Narcissi, and Soleil d'Or do not require the above treatment. Pot on arrival, keep in a cool temperature until well rooted, and then give the same treatment as any flowering plant.

The Harbingers of Spring

Crocuses

These early-flowering favorites make a most effective showing when planted in good-sized groups or when massed. Plant closely but not over an inch deep or the bulbs will fail to bloom. Grass areas where Crocus are planted should not be mowed until late spring, to allow proper ripening of the bulbs. Crocus are perfectly hardy and should not be disturbed for several years.

Fritillaria (Guinea-Hen-Flower)

Odd and most interesting spring-flowering bulbs with pendent, vari-colored flowers. Nice for clustering in the wild-garden or rockery. Mixed colors, $3 per 100.

The Madonna Lily (Lilium candidum)

The loveliest Lily of all, and the most satisfactory for the garden. Bulbs arrive from France in early September and should be planted at once to assure perfect blossoms for the coming year; hence early ordering is desirable.

We offer only the thick-petaled type, imported directly from northern France. Delightfully fragrant, snow-white flowers, varying from 5 to 20 on a rigid stem, appear about June 20—delphinium-time—and are seen at their perfection if planted among the delphiniums. Good, ordinary, well-drained garden soil is sufficient. Plant the bulbs not more than 4 inches deep, but plant as early as possible. A strong growth must be made before winter to produce fine flowers.

Dainty California ErythroniumsTrout Lily or Dog's-Tooth Violets

These charming woodland plants are not as well known as they should be. No other spring-flowering subject is comparable, either in delicacy of color or daintiness of form, and the richly mottled leaves are both attractive and interesting before the flowers appear. Perfectly hardy and at home in shaded nooks among the evergreens, crevices of the rockery, or naturalized in colonies in the woodland.

Unlike the eastern species, these California kinds (Hartwegi excepted) do not multiply by offsets and eventually over-run the garden but increase through the agency of seed.

A light, rather moist, well-drained soil is desirable, planting the corms not over 3 inches deep and quite close—2 to 3 inches apart—to form a ground-carpet. Late September planting is advised, and a winter mulch of leaves or peat should be applied in November. The flowering season commences in early April.

Roses for Fall Planting

Many famous American Rose-gardens, like those of Elizabeth Park at Hartford, Breeze Hill at Harrisburg, Syracuse, and others, owe much of their success to fall planting. Field-grown plants, taken from the fields in the fall, are likely to become established in the garden before severe winter weather comes. Then, when spring arrives, growth starts quickly and is followed by an abundance of flowers. A resolution to "Plant Roses in the Fall" will be altogether to your advantage. Your garden will be better and the blooms bigger. All plants offered are strong, 2-year, field-grown. October 15 on is the best time to plant.
